THURSDAY, OCTOBER 13.

Wicked western papers now allude to the president as "the husband of pretty Mrs. Cleveland."

Wisconsin militia did well at the Chicago Encampment, winning the first prize in the artillery, cavalry and infantry drills.

There were some surprises in the vital statistics of Paris for 1886. The births exceeded the deaths by 52,020, whereas the excess in 1885 was about 55,020. There were 2,919 divorces last year against 4,277 the previous year.

Among the heaviest tax-payers of New York are John Jacob Astor, $235,040; William Astor, $170,000; estate of W. H. Vanderbilt, $171,124; estate of Robert Goetz, $167,396; New York Central, $343,618, and the Consolidated Gas Company, $223,310.

The municipal election in Indianapolis followed closely the visit of Mrs. Cleveland and the president to that city, but it appears by the election returns that the democrats did not realize much of a party boom by the beautiful lady's visit. The republican ticket was triumphantly elected.

The Evening World starts off in fine style with two pages and fourteen columns more than it promised, and certainly offers an extraordinary cents worth. With The Evening News, Evening Sun and Evening World already out and one or two more in prospect, the market for one-cent evening papers in New York would seem likely to be well supplied.

Social circles in Washington are surprised by the announcement that Miss Ethel Sprague, the daughter of Mrs. Kate Chase Sprague, and the granddaughter of the late Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase, is preparing her debut on the theatrical stage. Miss Sprague, it is said, possesses remarkable talents, and for some time past has been under the instruction of the eminent masters of the European and American stages.

The Presbyterian Synod now in session at Neenah, is evidently not in sympathy with the "third party" prohibitionists. Yesterday afternoon a series of third party resolutions were reported by a member of a committee on temperance work, and the resolutions were "eat down" in a manner indicating that the Wisconsin Presbyterians were three to one against that idea. As amended the resolution pronounced strongly in favor of temperance reform, but believe victory will be more sure without the third party cracks."

The proper place to repair locomotives, remarks the Chicago Journal, is not at a water tank in an Indiana swamp, but in a round house, and no locomotive should be taken out of a round-house to run a train until it is examined and found to be in perfect running order. While an engine was endeavoring to move his engine with a crow-bar, his train was telescoped, and in a few moments a score or more human beings were undergoing the awful agony of being buried alive.

Technically, of course, Emma A. Atwell was out of order when she arose in a Nashville church last Sunday and answered the clergymen, who was indulging in a wholesale denunciation of theaters and actors. But every one will admit that she had great provocation, and the enthusiastic way in which the congregation applauded her, shows that the clergymen did not in this case reflect the sentiments of his church. The fact is that sweeping statements of this kind are made with altogether too great frequency in the christian pulpit.

The Poughkeepsie, (New York) Eagle, whose editor is recognized as one of the most ardent temperance men in that state, has a thoughtful leader on the temperance plank of the New York republican platform. It pays this hearty tribute to the plank: "The republican party made a grand declaration on the subject—a manly, courageous declaration—one worthy to be placed beside the resolution in its earliest platform against the extension of slavery into the territories. There were those who criticised and belittled that, as if of no value, and as an evasion of the question of abolition, but they have long since perceived their folly."

The defeat of the democratic candidates in Ohio and Pennsylvania, says the New York Tribune, by any ordinary measures, would only prove that neither the president nor the party had gained anything in those states. Shameful frauds in Ohio, Indiana and New Jersey would be called a sufficient explanation for local losses. Democratic defeat in Maryland is not unlikely. But that will also be attributed to local controversies.

Well-informed men know that the president's appointment of criminals from that state has made the revolt possible, but his friends will claim that "it is all a mere quarrel over the spoils," and but only a temporary influence. With some reason in recent experience, they will say that the same men who are now loudest in denunciation of Gorham, Higgins, Rasin, Thomas and the rest, will work zealously for the re-election of the president when he is the regular democratic candidate.

The Boston Transcript says that Prof. Egbert C. Smyth's review of the proceedings of the A. B. C. F. M. was of a character to stir up unpleasant recollections on the part of those who, relying upon their numbers, spurned every effort at conciliation, and in effect pronounced every obnoxious heretical that sympathized with Prof. Smyth in his defense of enlightened and more liberal interpretation.

of scripture. His characterization of the method by which corporate members were constituted to vote at this meeting cannot easily be disposed of, because it was too true. These Trinitarian reformers are not afraid of their opinions and display great intellectual acuteness in discerning the weak places in the conservative programme. One of Prof. Smyth's impressive sentences was that he had seen "Alpheus Hardy going down into his grave refusing to serve on the prudential committee, refusing to remain its chairman, and believing to the last that a policy had been adopted which would make shipwreck of that board." This was an inadmissible truth to be uttered at such a meeting. But the Andover professor can again rightly claim that his voice and pen have already been served in behalf of a policy which would have prevented strife, and avoided the unpleasant controversy that must now go on until freedom of thought and expression are as much allowed within relations as in political and social lines of inquiry.

TRUE DEMOCRACY.
The Milwaukee Sentinel thus refers to the president's plain remarks at the banquet given by Rex Magnus.

It has been doubted whether President Cleveland possessed true Jeffersonian simplicity, but there is no longer any ground for question upon the subject. When banqueted by the Madison adherents Saturday, at Merrill Springs Club house, one of his party asked "Mr. President, will you take the name 'Populist'?" "Why is good a name?" was the prompt reply of the greatest man. This remark like Jackson's "The union, it must and shall be preserved," will go through-out the ages in the collection of the memorable utterances of American presidents. It forever settles the question of Mr. Cleveland's Jeffersonian simplicity.

AWARDING THE PRIZES.

Announcement of the Winners in the Various Drill Contests at the International Military Camp.

Circus, Oct. 13.—The list of prize-winners of the encampment was announced by Colonel King yesterday during the dress parade, and the awards made. The list is headed by the Louisville Legion of Kentucky, which carried off the first prize of $3,000 and $500 in medals in the battalion drill. —The "hats off" ornado received fresh impetus from the action of a number of society ladies at the opera house last night.

—Jamesville Commandery No. 2, Knights Templar, assemble in regular semi-monthly concourse this evening at Masonic hall.

—Pulling horses out of the water works ditches in getting to be quite the regular thing.

—There was a very fair attendance at Prof. Seaverance's dancing school at Cannon's hall last evening, and a close meeting in presenting their congratulations in a most substantial manner. The bride was the recipient of many very substantial and useful presents from intimate friends, testifying the esteem in which she is held by her associates. Mr. and Mrs. Ryan will continue to make their home at 30 South Franklin street for the present. May good luck follow them.

—John Ward, once "Devil" in the Gazette office and now a stop for the New York, has been married to Helen Davy, the famous actress.

—Jamesville's trade with the dead letter office has increased greatly of late because people will not remember to put two cent stamps on drop letters.

—According to the Madison Journal, the street railway of that city has "committed suicide," and the city attorney is now taking steps to have its franchise revoked.

—The Rev. W. F. Brown, pastor of the Presbyterian church this city, delivered an historical address before the Presbytery Synod at Neenah last evening.

—Patent medicines are great things. One agent offered to bet Will Sayles that his patent hair restorer would raise a moustache on Hall & Co's glass show case.

—One man not over a week's journey from Jamesville walked two miles to the post office of a neighboring village and back again to get a postage stamp, the would not stick exchanged for a good one.

—Remember the social of the Presbyterians church and society at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. James Miller, East Main street, on to-morrow evening. Tea will be served at six o'clock for the business men.

—Marion, Indiana, has just voted forty thousand dollars to pay for the extension of the Marion & Indianapolis railway. But the donation was made on one condition. The shape of the company must be created and maintained there.

—Friday night the Court Street Literary club will begin work again for the winter. There will be a programme that all can appreciate.

—Miss Suie Jeffris, and Messrs. D. K. and W. S. Jeffris, entertained a thoroughly congenial company at their home in the fourth ward last evening. The guests numbered between seventy-five and a hundred. They were received in parlor handsomely decorated with flowers and toilettes, and were made to enjoy the evening exceedingly.

—The meeting of W. H. Sargent Post No. 20, G. A. R., to be held on to-morrow evening, will be one of great interest to every member of the post, and calls for a full attendance. At this meeting the reports of the representatives at the Grand Encampment at St. Louis will be made, and other business of importance will be considered. The attention of post members is called to the official order published in this issue.

—Nearly all the water pipe on the west side of the river is now laid, a small amount of twenty-inch iron on South Jackson street leading to the pumping station being yet to put in. The diversions are at work on South Main street on the east side of the river, and a few men are at work on a detective line on Madison street in the first ward, near the east tracks. At present there is some little dissatisfaction brewing between the laborers and the bosses, owing to the discharge of a "boss" who had become a favorite with the men, and a gang of men was laid off this morning from the Main street trench. It is said they will be put to work again as soon as the pipe layers catch up.

—Unless mail boxes are put up by house-owners, or arrangements made for dropping mail through doors the carriers are likely to be hopelessly swamped.

Their deliveries so far have averaged eighteen hundred and fifty a day. This and the delays at houses, have put the men considerably behind. Proper accommodations for receiving mail would be equal to the addition of at least one carrier, and when these accommodations can be so easily secured there is no excuse for inconvenience. Either boxes should be put at once—they can be bought at hard ware stores or at J. B. Green's plating mill—or six-inch slots should be cut in convenient door frames.

—Miss Della Tuttle, of Rockford, is visiting in the city.

—Mr. Edward Fether is making a brief visit in Jamesville.

—Dr. O. G. Bennett will return to Chicago Monday to take up his studies in the Chicago School of Dental Surgery.

HEADQUARTERS W. H. SARGENT POST NO. 39,
WISCONSIN DEPARTMENT, G. A. R.
JANESVILLE, WIS., OCT. 15, 1887.

Circular No. 5.

COMRADES.—The next regular meeting of this Post, which occurs to-morrow Friday evening, the 14th inst., will be one of importance to every member. The report which follows the second day thereafter establishes the standing of the Post at Department and National encampments for the following year and is therefore essential that there be a general attendance at this meeting. On Friday, the 21st, is the date of the sixth anniversary of our organization. At this time an entertainment, an army banquet, and dance will take place. The reunion will take place at the Bower City Armory. All soldiers, sailors, members of the Grand Army of the Republic in the city and vicinity are invited to be present to sustain and strengthen a loyal sentiment towards America and its institutions. The address of welcome will be delivered by Dr. Henry Palmer, surgeon general, who will be followed in a speech by Hon. Phil Cheek, Jr. of Madison.

The entertainment will be made of choice selections of vocal and instrumental music under the leadership and management of Comrade A. Kimberley and the occasion promises to be an evening profitably spent. Let us all meet in fraternity, charity and loyalty. At all our hearts unite in sustaining the objects of our order. Let us clasp hands in 1887 as we touch upon the past.

E. G. HARLOW, Commander.
JOHN McCULLOCH, Adjutant.

WANTS TO HIRE BLOOD.

SAN EXPERIENCE THAT CAN BE DRAFTED KNIGHT HERO IN JANESVILLE.

SAYS M. QAD: More I go about the country by rail, the more I want to kill a railroad employee. It was fully fifteen years ago that I first got the idea that I should some day shed the blood of a railroad man, and that belief has been growing stronger every day since there is a chap in the Union depot at Buffalo who is hourly courting death. I can't kill him, but some day some other victim will surely shed his bilious blood. I was in Buffalo the other day, and naturally wanted to come to Detroit. I think the same feeling would have possessed any other stranger in Buffalo. There is not one single valid reason why any one should remain in Buffalo when he can start for Detroit. This year I was figure in the past week.

I wanted to go to Detroit." "Why didn't you say so then?" "I did. What time does the train go?" "Eight o'clock to-morrow morning." "But I want to go to-night." "Then why didn't you say so?" How did I know when you wanted to go. Train goes at 10 o'clock." "But the time table says 11 o'clock." "Then why did you ask me?"

I started to appose, but he shut me up. Then I told him through the glass that I would go to Louisville, wait over 'till morning, or do almost anything else to secure his forgiveness, but he continued obdurate and refused to see me again.

THE PRIVATE SECRETARY.

—Thomas Nolan, our C. & N. W. Ry. agent, is spending a week at his home in Janesville. He is a good man.

—Rev. T. S. Odams, of Lyons, Iowa, is here by telegram to attend the funeral
